Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Latin or a related language. The text is written on aged, yellowed parchment and is arranged in several paragraphs. The script is dense and cursive, characteristic of the late Middle Ages. The text is written on a page that is slightly curved, suggesting it is part of a bound volume. The ink is dark, and the parchment shows signs of wear and discoloration. The text is written in a single column, with some lines starting with a large initial letter. The overall appearance is that of a historical manuscript page.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or letter. The text is written on aged, yellowed paper and is partially obscured by a vertical crease or fold down the center. The script is dense and difficult to decipher due to its cursive nature and the condition of the paper.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, continuing from the previous block. The text is written on aged, yellowed paper and is partially obscured by a vertical crease or fold down the center. The script is dense and difficult to decipher due to its cursive nature and the condition of the paper.

This is a copy of the original manuscript of the 17th century. The text is written in a cursive hand and is a Latin translation of a Hebrew text. The text is a list of names and places in the region of the Black Sea. The names are: maza, talach, gorpuzi, po, Eipshib,

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written on aged, yellowed paper with some staining and is partially obscured by the binding of the book. The script is dense and difficult to decipher due to its cursive nature and the condition of the paper. The text appears to be a list or a series of entries, possibly related to a collection or inventory. The words are written in a fluid, connected style, characteristic of 17th or 18th-century handwriting. The paper shows signs of wear, including foxing and irregular discoloration, particularly near the top and bottom edges. The right side of the page is bound, and the text continues onto the adjacent page, which is partially visible.
